

BUILT WITH HEART

A gentle journal for the most awaited journey

Milestones, photos & memories for mothers and fathers who are expecting a little one.

WHY I MADE IT

I kept searching. Nothing felt right.

Listening to the people closest to me, so many bought beautiful physical journals — and then felt boxed-in by them.

1

Monotonous layouts — the same flat pages on every day, in every book.

2

Hardcoded pages that force you to write, whether you feel like it or not.

3

No cuteness of icons, no sparkling messages, no gentle nudges.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

THE APPROACH

Built from the ground up — with you in mind

Not a tracker with cold charts. A soft, personal space designed around a real human's feelings.

The screenshot shows a mobile app interface with a modal form titled "Edit this page" in a cursive font. The form has a close button (X) in the top right corner. It features three tabs: "Hilestone" (selected, with a star icon), "Memory" (with a camera icon), and "Note" (with a notepad icon). The form fields include: "Date of this moment" with a date picker showing "dd-mm-yyyy"; "Title" with the handwritten text "We saw the sac"; "The week it happened (only if you have no exact date yet)" with the number "5"; "Blood tests & checks on this page (mentions, not separate pages)" with a "+ add a mention" button; and "Write your words (handwritten style)" with the text "On the first scan a tiny gestational sac in the right place. 'Exactly where". At the bottom are "Cancel" and "Save this page" (with a heart icon) buttons. The background is a blurred view of the app's main interface, showing a calendar and a "Week 5" section.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

CAPTURE THE MOMENT

Add a page, a memory, a milestone
— whenever the mood strikes.

The screenshot shows a mobile app interface for creating a new page. The form is titled "A new page" in a cursive font. It features three tabs: "Milestone" (with a star icon), "Memory" (with a camera icon and highlighted in red), and "Note" (with a notepad icon). Below the tabs, there is a "Date of this moment" field with a calendar icon, showing the date "08-08-2026". A "Title" field follows, with a placeholder text "e.g. We heard your heartbeat". The main body of the form is a large text area labeled "Write your words (handwritten style)" with a placeholder text "Tell this page what happened, what you felt, what you remember...". At the bottom, there are two buttons: "Cancel" and "Save this page" (with a heart icon and highlighted in red).

Not forced. Just waiting warmly for whatever you feel like writing today.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

TWO LOVELY WAYS TO BROWSE

Carousel & stacked — your story, your rhythm.

Swipe like a scrapbook, or scroll the whole journey in one calm flow.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

SHAPE IT

Drag & drop to rearrange. Make it truly yours.

A journal you can shape to match your heart's order.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

THE FEEL

Warm themes — your colour, everywhere.

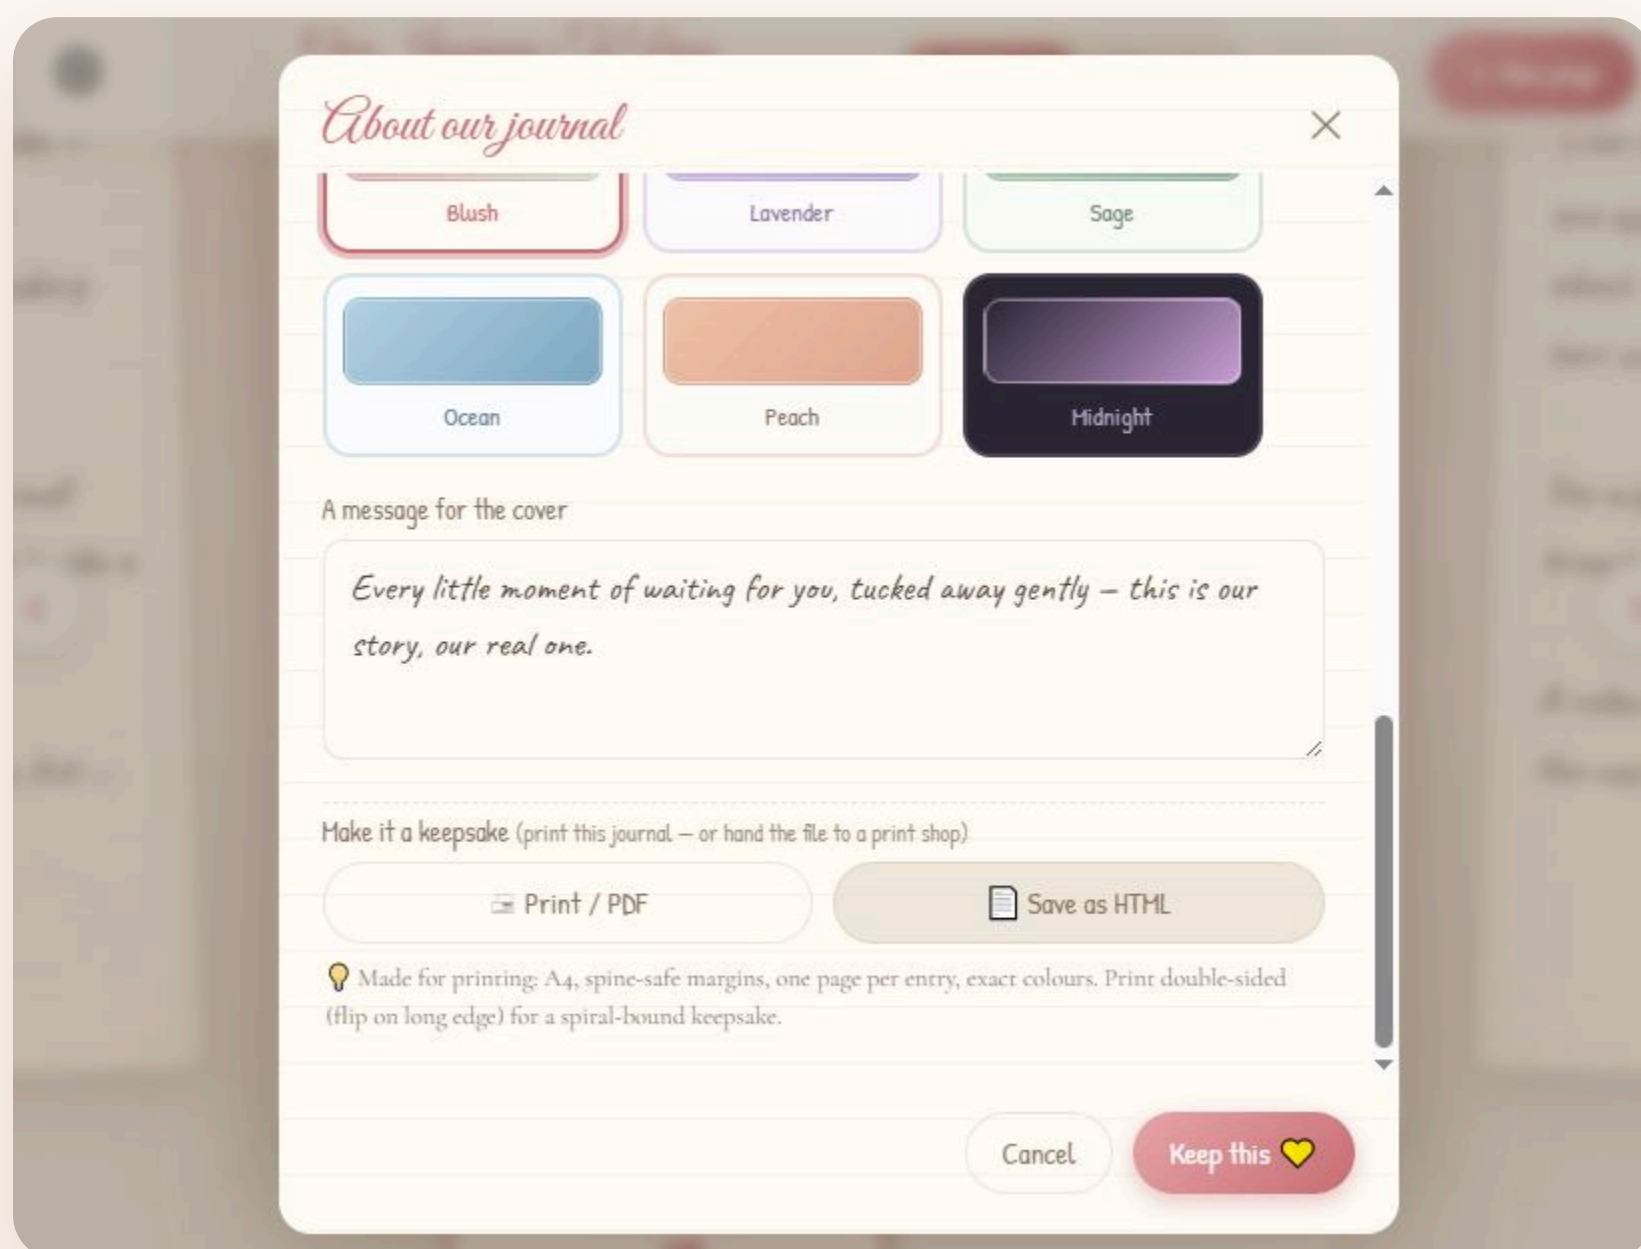

Six global palettes, applied across the whole journal. Easy navigation throughout.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

KEEP IT FOREVER

A keepsake you can hold — save it, print it.

Turn all your words & pictures into a real, spiral-bound book. For the little one, one day.

- pregnancy-blossom-journal

PRIVATE BY DESIGN

On your phone. Fully local. Fully offline.

Install it as a PWA — your journal lives on your device, not in a cloud. No mining, no selling, no account. Just privacy.

Made with full heart for the loving couples expecting a little one — because the waiting should feel as beautiful as what it waits for.

